

Name: Kelly Shannon

Affiliation: University of Wisconsin-Madison

Expected Graduation: Masters in Summer 2018

Field of Study: Energy Economics

I will be studying energy economics, looking at energy efficiency and how people make decisions related to their energy consumption.

I will be beginning my program this summer. I would like to make contacts in the field as well as gain a broader understanding of what research is being done in the field. Attending this conference will give me real-world experience and the ability to better understand what issues I will be facing in my career and what options exist for research and improvement.
